

Carrington Workwear Fabrics

Carrington is one of Europe's largest fully integrated textile processing and finishing operations, producing fabrics suitable for end-user applications across all industry sectors. Based in Lancashire, where the roots of British textiles began, the company is the largest producer of workwear fabrics in the UK. And is now Europe's leading supplier of flame retardant finished fabrics exporting to 70 countries worldwide.

We specialise in the development of fabrics and finishes that can provide exceptional levels of performance in the most demanding workplace environments. Working closely with Europe's leading garment manufacturers and rental laundries puts us in a unique position to monitor trends and demand.

Operational and environmental excellence is the driving force of our business and is supported by a continuous programme of investment in modern, environmentally sound production technologies of our manufacturing company Pincroft Dyeing & Printing Co. Ltd

Investment in technology and production goes hand in hand with ecology and sustainability. We have dramatically reduced the environmental impact of our fabric preparation, dyeing and printing and finishing processes. Operating one of the largest heat recovery systems of its type in the world, we utilise advanced effluent treatment technology to recycle chemical residues and minimise water consumption.

We have a long established international reputation for innovation and continue to introduce exciting new breakthroughs in workwear and technical fabrics. Our workwear range meets the stringent performance requirements encountered in such diverse areas as heavy industry, light engineering, food processing, retail, distribution, pharmaceutical, healthcare and defence. Our quality assurance systems cover every stage of fabric production and our methods and processes are certified to internationally recognised standards such as ISO and ETSA.

This is backed up by total customer support through our Sales offices in England, France, Germany, Asia and Central Europe – plus, agents and distributors across the globe.

CARRINGTON WORKWEAR FABRICS
SHAPING THE FUTURE OF FABRIC

We enhance the working life of millions of people. Everyday, in virtually every industry or business sector, millions of people are doing their jobs dressed in workwear made from Carrington fabrics.

Fabrics designed to bespoke requirements. Fabrics developed for specific tasks. Fabrics exhaustively proven in wearer trials. For example in hospitals, clinics, consulting rooms, operating theatres and doctors' surgeries you'll find our fabrics helping to maintain a hygienic environment to reduce risks such as cross-infection.

In Waste Disposal services, Warehouse and Distribution Centres, Police Force, Hotels, Supermarkets, Airports, Businesses, Engineering Plants, Energy Companies, Restaurants – in every walk of life, Carrington are there servicing the wearers needs.

Fabrics that ensure uniforms and workwear are not only hygienic but also comfortable to wear in what are often warm and humid conditions.

We respond with advice that comes from long experience, plus a wide range of fabrics to meet specialised workwear needs. Using in-house CAD our designers work with garment manufacturers, distributors, brands and end-users to create bespoke designs that incorporate logos or other graphics – to reinforce a professional corporate image.

Fit for Purpose

In the UK, in Europe and in the wider world, millions of people perform their tasks comfortably and safely in workwear made from Carrington fabrics.

Which means they work happily and more efficiently. This is a prime concern – but it has to be balanced against practical considerations. Workwear also has to be supremely fit for purpose and offer value in commercial terms.

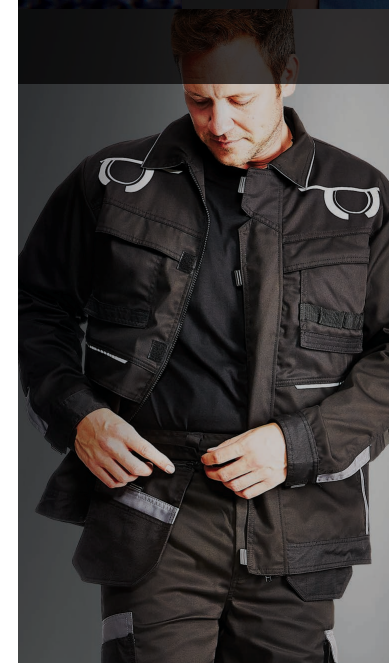

It has to meet every performance requirement, with optimum functionality and durability throughout a long life. And, it must retain its wearability, smartness and other qualities after repeated wash and wear cycles. So we work closely with laundries and other organisations to ensure our workwear fabric ranges meet the demands of ETSA performance.

Another important factor is the way an organisation's workforce is presented. Workwear plays an important role in its corporate image – and the way it is perceived by its customers and the world at large.

Our workwear range includes:

- Polyester Cotton
- 100% cotton
- Cotton Rich
- Cooltex Blended
- Tencel Blends
- Stretch
- Colour Wovens

We are Carrington . . .
we are the fabric of life.
